Street Fighting In Barcelona

Diary Of An Englishwoman

The following account of conditions and events in Barcelona during the earlier stages of the Civil War is taken from the diary of an Englishwoman who, with her husband, was recently evacuated from Barcelona by a British warship.

Saturday [July 18].—After dinner we went along our own street to our usual café in the Plaza at one end, where we sat and had some coffee. A tremendous crowd as usual on a Saturday night, as there is an orchestra at our café, and the whole population comes to the Plaza and dances country dances all over the one side of the Plaza, over the pavement and traffic routes, everywhere.

While we were there, there kept arriving to stay at the hotel, in which our café is on the ground floor, dozens and dozens of what were described as "international athletes" who had arrived to take part in some Olympic Games tomorrow. B. [her husband] kept muttering to himself as each lorry-load arrived, that never had he seen such a tough-looking lot and he did not believe there was one single athlete among them. He thought it must be some sort of Communist publicity stunt, which was a queer forecast, as it happened.

Sunday.—At two o'clock this morning I heard up the inside wall of this block of flats a radio going and then a long announcement of news. It was that all good citizens and Communists were to go at once to their appointed stations to be prepared to help the Government against the rebellious army; that Seville, Malaga, and Madrid were obviously quite out of control, but nothing, as usual, was to be feared; and that the Government would radio every half-hour. So naturally we resigned ourselves to a night of it.

HOLIDAY CROWD TURNED BACK

At three they announced a general strike, so by 3.30, as it was growing light, we opened our shutters, as we thought it would be interesting to see all the trams stopped and people being turned out of them. And, indeed, it was, the trams hurtling along at 60 miles an hour empty. Then we saw all the early-bird holiday-makers, who always go out on Sunday to the country, being turned back from going on foot to the Plaza by civilians.

At ten to four we saw the Guardia pouring out of their barracks across the street, and then to our left a mass of soldiers running like hares. Then, if you please, there started a real battle up and down our street, which went on, a real fusillade, for three-quarters of an hour. An unfortunate man was killed under our eyes at the taxi garage opposite. They killed a captain and two soldiers up in the Plaza, but I did not see that.

The most curious part of it all is, that the assault started from the foreign athletes' hotel, and there is no one staying there except themselves.

After breakfast, for an hour, there were just a few odd shots, and then it all started again up and down the street. So here I am writing in B's cubby-hole of a dressing-room at the back. They say there has been really bad fighting in the Ramblas, which is a sort of Bond-street, and a lot of people killed.

Just before breakfast I took Fina [her dog] out for an airing, as it seemed all over. I now know it was a mad thing to do. There were a lot of people in the street, walking with their hands above their heads, holding white handkerchiefs.

NINE CHURCHES IN FLAMES

Monday.—No gas to-day and rumors of no water, so we have filled the bath as we cannot use it. Last night we went on to the roof—strictly prohibited—and saw nine churches burning. Very beautiful in the dark, but curiously sinister.

This morning, as everything was quiet, all the youths were burning anything clerical they could lay hands on. We saw them gutting a priest's house and throwing everything, including the stairs and blinds, out of the window into the street, and having enormous bonfires. Obviously, for the moment at least, Communism has won. They have commandeered all private cars in garages, all petrol, and have broken into a lot of foodshops. There are no trams running, but masses of private cars, all with C.N.T. [Confederation of Workers] and F.A.I. [Federation of Anarchists] painted all over them and filled with youths bristling with guns out of every window. One has to do the Communist salute every second yard to every passing car.

While we were at lunch an absolute battle started. Apparently two shots were fired from the roof of this house at the garage opposite, which has a large petrol tank and is incessantly full of Communist cars filling up, and wounded two men. A mass of people arrived and started shooting at this house. The noise was fearful.

Our hostesses dashed out of the door on to the inside landing, which has lifts and stairs serving all the flats. B. and I, after about ten minutes in which we demonstrated our blue blood by sitting and chatting negligently over the dirty dishes, followed them.

HANDKERCHIEF SIGNAL

There are eight floors with six flats in each, all opening on to this central stair with two lifts in it. The noise was really greater inside than the firing outside. There must have been fully 300 excited Latins of both sexes discussing the situation all up the stair. On every step children, dogs, and every one yelling their views at each other.

Then a mass of Guardia Asaltos and Communists, armed to the teeth, began to pour in and go up to the roof in lifts to catch the assailant. They were up there for ages, but he or they had gone by then. We have all been told to hang white handkerchiefs from our windows. No one knows why, but we have all obediently done so.

Tuesday. It was so quiet this morning that I thought we would go to see if the English Consulate could help me to get away. We found them as nervous as cats, but utterly charming. They advised me to go by car—quite hopeless, as there are none available—or by ship—equally hopeless, as there are none.

Arrived back at two. I must say, contrary to my expectations, no one was rude or unpleasant. There has so far been no looting except of arms and food. No private house have been touched nor the banks, but I do not think there can be one church left in Barcelona with more than four bare walls, and every priest's house and religious college is gone completely, also the Italian Shipping Line office.

STREET BATTLEFIELD

What a battle there must have been in Plaza Catalina and the Ramblas! Broken glass everywhere and shell-holes and bullet marks, the branches of trees cut through by bullets, four dead mules lying there blown out like balloons, and the smell of them! Quite a lot of barricades down the Ramblas made of paving stones torn up. It must have been a shambles while it was going on, and there must be a lot of wounded because they have had to take over a theatre and a movie for extra room.

Poor souls, and they are all so young. In a way, though, it was curiously touching, that whenever we gave a Communist salute to a passing car, guns and swagger and all the occupants, all young, saluted back and smiled from ear to ear. They are obviously so delighted with themselves, and there is no question they do fight like tigers for their ideals.

But what will happen later when there are no more churches to burn, and no advancing army to distract them? I do not dare to look ahead. For how can the Government ever collect the arms back again, if they are not willing to give them up? Who ever heard of a youth from 18 to 25, who has just fought and won a war, being ready to give up his arms to order?

Wednesday.—B. went down to the Port again this afternoon, and oh! joy of joys! there's an Eng-

COMMERCIAL BATTLE

Australia And U. S. In Trade War

JAPAN PROBABLY WILL GAIN

The recent action of President Roosevelt in abolishing all advantages which Australia received under former trade treaties with the United States, has only intensified the trade war between the two countries, according to government sources here.

While Australia's original action in imposing an importing license system and reducing the quota of articles that could be imported from the U. S. was instituted for the purpose of reducing Australia's unfavourable trade balances with the United States, a certain amount of bitterness, it is declared, has now been injected into the fight by America's latest step.

JAPAN TO GAIN

According to official sources, Japan will probably be the gainer in the fight.

In spite of the fact that under the new importing license system, the rates of duty on rayon have been slightly increased, it is asserted that the orders will be diverted to Japan rather than to the United States.

There will be no restrictions of any kind imposed on Japanese rayon, as Japan is a good customer of Australia. It is admitted that rayon was placed on the license list for the sole purpose of shutting out the American product, as the United States does not purchase sufficiently Australian goods.

BITTER AGAINST U. S.

As regards the importation of automobile chassis from the United States and Canada, the number has been limited to 50,000 annually, of which 25,000 will come from the United States and 25,000 from Canada.

Licenses for all other goods on the prohibited list will be refused outright except in the case of national necessity or where employment in Australia is involved. The object of this is not to permit any of these goods to come into Australia from the United States and other non-buyers of Australian products.

RECALL TO MOSCOW

London, Aug. 28.

The President of the Soviet Russian Trade Delegation to London, Czaraki, was suddenly recalled to Moscow, and the President of the Fur Monopoly, F. Chowsky, has been appointed his successor. Reports add that it is not yet known why Czaraki was recalled.—Transocean News Service.

GOMBOES TO REST

fish cruiser in there, tied up. He got caught in a fusillade in the regular plane at 2 p.m. on Friday. In the morning he had taken leave of the Governor of the Bank of France, Labeysse, and of Premier Leon Blum. After that he attended a reception in his honour by the German Chamber of Commerce in the "Deutsches Haus" a newly opened community and social centre for the Germans in Paris. The leader of the National Socialist Party, Dr. Schuler said that Dr. Schacht was the first National Socialist Minister to visit Paris, and it was earnestly hoped that he had succeeded in clearing up to some extent the misunderstandings prevailing between the two countries, and bringing about a closer relationship.

Among those present at Le Bourget upon Dr. Schacht's departure were Count Welczek, German Ambassador, Minister of Economics, Paul Bastid and Labeysse, Governor of the Bank of France.—Transocean News Service.

HAPPY ENDING

However, while we were sitting disconsolately on a bollard, discussing what to do, an officer came alongside from the ship, and I shouted to him. He was quite charming and said, stuff and nonsense, of course we could come on board; that was what they were there for, and, of course, we could bring Fina and anything we liked. So we tramped back to our lodgings, and I packed what I could. We got on board with no trouble at all, and you can guess the kindness of everyone. We stayed on the London till 8 p.m., and were then put on the Douglas, a destroyer (1,530 tons), and sailed right away. They were shooting on the far side of the quay as we left.

SCHACHT LEAVES PARIS

Paris, Aug. 28.

Reichsbank President Dr. Hjalmar Schacht left Paris by the regular plane at 2 p.m. on Friday.

In the morning he had taken leave of the Governor of the Bank of France, Labeysse, and of Premier Leon Blum. After that he attended a reception in his honour by the German Chamber of Commerce in the "Deutsches Haus" a newly opened community and social centre for the Germans in Paris. REPORT DENIED

Berlin, Aug. 28.

The foreign Press reports that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, President of the Reichsbank and Minister of Economics, has conducted negotiations for a loan while in Paris, as denoted in official quarters as being "entirely without foundation."

LENIN'S WIDOW AND STALIN

Moscow, Aug. 28.

It is strongly rumoured that there is a violent quarrel between Stalin and the widow of Lenin, Krupskaja. It is declared that Krupskaja, whose intervention in 1935 on behalf of Sinoviev and Kamenev was the sole reason that they were not arrested for "moral responsibility" in the assassination of Kirov, is violently protesting against the death sentences against the two men, who were amongst the closest collaborators of Lenin.

It is said that the criticism of Krupskaja of the sentences led to a violent quarrel between Stalin and Krupskaja, in course of which Stalin energetically forbade Krupskaja to criticize his regime.

According to another version, Krupskaja was not received by Stalin whereupon she complained to the Communist Party Headquarters. It is believed that she will be arrested or expelled from Moscow.—Transocean News Service.

It is moreover stated that Dr. Schacht did not "conduct any negotiations at all" but merely, after the initiative taken by the Governor of the Bank of France, reestablished contact with the responsible quarters of France after a "pause of five years"—Transocean News Service.

OBITUARY

Mr C. W. Kinder
RAILWAYS' PIONEER
IN CHINA

Mr. Claude William Kinder, who died recently at his home at Osnabrück, a day before completing his eighty-fourth year, was the pioneer of railway construction in China, and for 31 years general manager and engineer-in-chief of the Imperial Chinese Railways.

The son of Major Thomas William Kinder, formerly Master of the Mint at Hong Kong, he was born on August 10, 1852, and received his professional training in England, Canada, France, and Russia, and became M. Inst. C. E. In 1873 he was appointed Assistant Engineer of the Imperial Japanese Railways, and in 1878 he went to China as resident engineer and engineer-in-chief of the Chinese Engineering and Mining Company, and was soon appointed engineer-in-chief and general manager of the Imperial Railways of North China. He was also advisory engineer of the Peking-Mukden Railway. He built the first locomotive and the first railway of standard gauge in China. He served on the civil staff of the Imperial Chinese Railways in 1901, and was mentioned in dispatches and received the medal and clasp for the relief of Peking.

On May 1, 1909, he retired, and the Director-General of Railways in the Ministry of Communications offered him a three years' engagement as advisory engineer in London. Mr. Kinder, however, declined on the ground that the Railway Bureau, as then constituted, was acting against China's true interests and had persistently ignored his position and authority for two years past. He could not serve with full loyalty a bureau which failed to respect its railway loan agreements. He was succeeded by Mr. Harvey Bellingham, who had been assistant engineer under him.

Mr. Kinder was made a C.M.G. in 1900, and a mandarin of the Red Button of the second class in 1905, and he also received the Order of the Double Dragon. He was a life member of the National Rifle Association and a fellow of the Hakluyt Society. He married first in 1879 Mary, daughter of Harabumi, Asai of Tokyo, and secondly, in 1923 Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. George Bonshor, of Bottesford, Leicestershire, and had one son.

SIR PETER CHALMERS
MITCHELL

A Briton who, despite the advice of the British Foreign Office, will not leave Spain, is Sir Peter Chalmers Mitchell.

Sir Peter retired from the secretaryship of the London Zoological Society last year. He has since been living in Malaga, where he has a house.

To-day Malaga is a stronghold of the Spanish Government.

Sir Peter has written to friends in England saying that there is good order in Malaga and that the majority of rebel prisoners are being well treated; and that, whatever happened, he felt bound to stay.

Sir Peter is 72.

THOMAS CHALMERS

He is an interesting man—scientist, author, philosopher, and descendant of Dr. Thomas Chalmers, founder of the Free Church in Scotland.

In 1834 Dr. Chalmers, a Fifehire man, like Sir Peter, became head of the Evangelical Section of the Scottish Church, which stood for spiritual independence and for the principle that "no minister shall be introduced into any parish contrary to the will of the people."

The fight for independence was long and bitter, and when, in 1843, the Government vetoed the Evangelicals' claims 470 clergymen withdrew from the General Assembly and founded the Free Church.

Chalmers was the first Moderator. Four years later he was found dead in bed on his return to Edinburgh from London, where he had been giving evidence in the House of Commons concerning the refusal of Scottish landowners to give sites to the Free Church.

NEXT FOUR YEARS

The Air Ministry recently announced that to meet the requirements of the expanded Royal Air Force the present reserve of fully trained pilots will be increased in the near future by a new category of reserve pilots.

These reserve pilots will, entry, pass through the same full course of training as pilots of the regular Air Force, lasting about 12 months. They will be trained at civil and service flying schools.

While at civil schools the pay, leave and other conditions will be similar to those of pupils training for commissions in the regular Air Force.

On proceeding to an R.A.F. Depot from the civil school, reserve pilots will be appointed to the acting rank of pilot officer, on probation, and will be eligible for confirmation in rank after 12 months' service. While at the R.A.F. Depot and during subsequent service at flying schools they will receive the pay of their rank.

PRELIMINARY TO CIVIL CAREER

On completion of their period training reserve pilots will revert to civil life to complete their reserve service.

The scheme is designed to appeal to young men who can spare 12 months for training before embarking upon a career, and can make satisfactory arrangements for reemployment in civil life after the training.

It differs from the scheme for the raising of the R.A.F. Volunteer Reserve, which was announced by Viscount Swinton, Minister for Air, in the House of Lords on July 30. The latter scheme provides less intensive training, under conditions which will permit the entry of 800 candidates a year without interruption of their civil occupations.

Selected candidates under the new one-year training scheme will be appointed to commissions in Class A of the Reserve of Air Force Officers for a period of five years' service. In addition to attending the initial 12 months' training, they will be liable to attend for not more than 24 days' annual training in subsequent years. They will receive a retaining fee of £25 a year for each year after the first.

Candidates must be between their 18th and 25th birthdays, and approximately of the educational standard required for the School Certificate of the Oxford and Cambridge Schools Examination Board.

The first course will begin early in October. Intending candidates are asked to apply immediately to the Secretary, Air Ministry (S.T.e. Reserve), Kingsway, London, W.C. 2, for particulars.

GERMAN MINISTER TO CAIRO

membered less on account of his many three-volume novels than by two projects which he inspired—the People's Palace in the Mile End-road and the Society of Authors.

The former sprang directly from his book, "All Sorts and Conditions of Men." This pictured an imaginary "Palace of Delight," which cured the monotony of life in the East End.

The idea became so popular that the building was endowed, erected and opened within five years of the book's publication.

Besant was life and soul of the movement which led to the formation of the Society of Authors. His training as a mathematician probably contributed to the ardour with which he fought for the rights of authors less methodical than himself.

His passion for books was unbounded. His diary many times contained the record, "Day wasted, read nothing."

CORONATION ORDER

No Coronets For Peersesses

JEWELLED TIARAS
TO BE WORN

It was announced recently, on the authority of the Earl Marshal, the Duke of Norfolk that peers and peersesses attending the Coronation, on May 12 next year, will wear full Coronation robes of their degrees, but peersesses will not require coronets.

Peers and Peersesses will be requested, by a further notice, to inform the Earl Marshal of their ability to attend, and of the addresses to which their summonses should be sent. Full instructions as to dress for all persons invited to attend the ceremony in Westminster Abbey will be issued later.

The announcement that peersesses are not to wear coronets will be received with satisfaction by many of those concerned, for many peersesses do not possess them.

It was not until the Coronation of Charles II. that peersesses wore coronets. Their coronation robes are an even later innovation.

When King George was crowned some peersesses elected to wear coronets and tiaras. At that period women had elaborately dressed hair to support the weight of the two ornaments.

The view taken was that the wearing of tiaras instead of coronets need not detract from the dignity or brilliance of the great ceremonial.

"We may look for a magnificent display of colour," said Mr. E. H. Symonds, head of the house of Reville, the Royal dressmakers when he heard of the decision.

"With their Coronation robes the peersesses will wear tiaras and jewelled headaddresses, and presumably their family diamonds, rubies, emeralds, and other jewels to accord with their gowns."

"And NOW —
I'm strong and healthy again!"

"Some time ago I was always feeling tired. I grew very weak and got no pleasure out of life. Then a friend advised me to take Sanatogen and — look at me now! I am fit and vigorous again and feel thoroughly happy."

That world-famous Medical Paper, "The Lancet," writes about the strengthening influence of Sanatogen:

"There is abundant evidence of the value of Sanatogen as a restorative and food, and more particularly in cases of general debility."

When you do not feel so well, start taking Sanatogen. Every chemist sells it and Sanatogen will soon make you thoroughly strong and healthy again, full of youthful vitality.

Chinese

Visitors

To London

"Tremble With Expectance"

A sudden eruption of Chinese men and women in Russell-square on August 12 signalled that the first conducted party of Chinese who had ever visited England had arrived.

There are 34, ten of them women, and all from Shanghai—bankers, students, lawyers and one university professor. They started off in June, and have visited Prague, Venice, Berlin (for the Olympic Games) and Holland. None of them has been in England before.

"For 35 years," said Mr. P. C. Teng, leader of the party, "I have heard of wonders of London, and now for the first time I come to see same. This is entirely pleasure party. It is first visit to England for everyone. We tremble with expectation!"

One of the party was Mr. Kieng-Yung, ex-Minister of Justice. Another, Mr. Ko, is commissioned by the Chinese Government to study economic conditions. Mr. Ang Ching Sing, who has brought his wife, daughter, son and daughter-in-law, is a retired merchant from the South Sea Islands.

STRANGE FOOD

I met Mrs. Ang Jun, a pleasant, smiling woman who spoke good English. She was in love with Venice and enthusiastic about the kindness of the hostesses in the private houses where they put up in Berlin.

The only unattached woman in the party is Miss No. Li How, an artist. All the women wear Chinese dress.

So far, the Chinese travellers have taken kindly to unaccustomed European food; but in London it is being arranged that one course in every meal shall be Chinese.

"That means rice or chicken in some form," said Mr. Teng. "We become what you say, homesick, for our Chinese food. We too, consume beef and pork as also you, but cooking in Europe has great difference."

Mrs. Ang was keen to see some London theatrical shows.

"We saw many in Europe. Very amusing, oh yes! Very different from our Chinese theatre. Are they so shocking in London?"

THE FISHERMAN & THE KING

That Fellow In The Blue Shirt

WOMAN'S GIFT OF MAIZE COBS

Heavy rain on August 13 prevented King Edward from carrying out his intention of shooting deer and chamois in the Velebit Mountains, which rise near the Dalmatian Coast.

His Majesty, accordingly, spent the first wet day of his holiday in cruising. In the evening, when the weather cleared, he went for a row.

The yacht Nahlin left Modritsch Bay, where it was anchored, early in the morning. She passed through the Planinka Canal to the Isle of Vir and so to the open sea.

She then steamed up the Pasmanski Canal and anchored off Biograd. At 2.45 p.m. on August 14 the yacht left Biograd and steamed to the wide bay of Ergulje and there anchored again, apparently for the night.

The King, accompanied by some of his guests, went for a picnic on the shore of Modritsch Bay. The party stayed until late in the afternoon, bathing and fishing.

Later his Majesty went ashore at Biograd and watched a woman picking maize cobs. When he asked if he might buy some, the woman pushed a large bunch into his arms, saying, "You are our guest. We would give anything, even our lives, for you," and refused to take the money he offered.

On his return from his recent visit to London Mr. Pirow said "Very influential quarters in Britain are agreed that there can be no permanent basis for a peaceful agreement with Germany unless the Germans are given adequate compensation for their colonies: meaning territorial compensation, not anywhere on the face of the globe, but in Africa."

"I found a lot of support for the view that Germany's co-operation in Africa was vital for the maintenance of the white civilisation of the Continent."

The man said he did not, but when his Majesty asked if he spoke English, he replied, "Yes, I speak English."

"PETTICOAT FEVER"
Majestic Theatre Under New Management

A thrice-welcomed team returned to the Majestic Theatre yesterday when "Petticoat Fever," new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production co-starring Robert Montgomery and Myrna Loy was screened. Adapted from the successful stage play of the same name, "Petticoat Fever" concerns a young wireless operator in an icebound Labrador station. He is so lonely that, when a beautiful young girl and her male escort run out of gas and make a forced landing nearby, he holds them prisoner rather than face another Arctic night alone.

The story runs its merry course, with the young operator making remarkable romantic headway, when his one-time fiancée, a girl who stood him up two years before, appears on the scene, intent now upon marrying him.

The excellent supporting cast includes Regina Owen, Otto Yamaoka, Forrester Harvey, Bo Ching and Iris Yamaoka.

As from yesterday the Majestic Theatre is under a new management.

"THE PRINCESS COMES ACROSS"

Crime, comedy, satire and romance are adroitly mingled in the Paramount production, "The Princess Comes Across" which tells a very entertaining story about strange happenings during an Atlantic crossing. The film stars a popular team, Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray who appeared together in "Hands Across the Table."

Showing at the Queen's Theatre, "The Princess Comes Across" has a story that is slickly told, and the acting is excellent. There are a few incidents which drag, but on the whole this is a picture you will enjoy.

The story cheats once or twice in obscuring the trail to the murderer; but that is pardonable because the crime angle of the plot is only one of its attractions, and not the most important.

Miss Lombard, assuming a Swedish accent and mannerisms as the false princess, is in grand form, providing comedy, satire and romance with equal skill. Fred MacMurray makes her a natural partner as the cool, amusing band-leader; and William Frawley provides some splendid dumb-cracks as his aide-de-camp.

The film was directed by William K. Howard. — "Celluloid."

"A MESSAGE TO GARCIA"

Out of the story of the true adventure that changed the destiny of three nations, 20th Century-Fox has created fanciful, colourful entertainment, full of glamorous romance, high adventure and magnificent courage, and presenting three great stars, together for the first time, in their greatest roles.

The picture is "A Message to Garcia," inspired by Elbert Hubbard's immortal essay, and showing to-day at the King's Theatre, with Wallace Beery, Barbara Stanwyck and John Boles brought together in the starring roles.

GIRL GUIDES HELP IN INDIA

One of the most encouraging signs of the times is the way in which the work of Boy Scouts and Girl Guides is helping to break down the barrier of national, class, religious, and caste barriers in the world.

Here is an extract from a talk on the work Girl Guides are doing in this connection in India, given by Miss Rustomjee at the Girl Guides Round Table of Trainers, 1935:

"About 20 years ago, Guiding first came to India as a movement for children who were not Indian, a game for children who lived in the country for a time, and who had the adventure and friendship of Guiding in their own small circle. There was something lacking here—for these children were living and playing together, not knowing anything about the children belonging to the country itself. Eventually this misunderstanding disappeared, and Guiding became a game for the Indian children, too."

MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING.

"Though India is spoken of as a country, you all know that it is really a combination of many countries, with its 350,000,000 people living in different states and provinces, speaking many different languages, and having many different religious customs, different manners, and different outlooks on life. It is very difficult for anyone who has not been to India to realize these differences, but Guiding is doing a good piece of work in helping us to understand ourselves, and in bringing about mutual understanding."

"In the early years of Guiding it was not possible to mix girls of different castes and religions; they could not cook together, nor eat together. To-day I can safely say that in our camps, training weeks, and conferences, this attitude has changed; we have come to understand each other's point of view, and the different castes and communities have come together. If we in India have been able to do this, surely we can spread this understanding to other nations."

HOW THE NAVY TAKES OFF REFUGEES

Transformation Scene In Destroyer
BLUEJACKETS ACT AS NURSEMAIDS

In view of the widespread interest and admiration aroused by the British Navy's workmanlike evacuation of refugees from Spain, it will be appropriate to give some further details of how the work is performed, writes Hector C. Bywater, "Daily Telegraph" Naval Correspondent.

The record for embarking the largest number of fugitives is held at present by H.M.S. Devonshire, which recently conveyed 600 from Barcelona to Marseilles. The Devonshire, however, is a particularly roomy cruiser of 16,000 tons, and even with such a large number of extra "passengers" the problem of accommodation would not become acute.

It is very different in the case of destroyers, one of which last week embarked over 80 men, women and children of different nationalities.

The vessel, one of the B class, displaces only 1,350 tons, her overall length being 323ft. and her greatest breadth 32ft. Her ship's company numbers 140 officers and men, whose quarters are by no means palatial.

As the refugees flocked on board they were met by officers and ratings, who directed them where to go. Most of these unfortunate people were on the point of exhaustion and many were almost starving.

The weather was fine, so it was possible for all the destroyer's awnings to be spread. In addition, canvas screens were rigged along the upper deck, which thus became a large tent. This, again, was divided into several compartments by rigging other canvas screens athwart the deck, and the refugees enjoyed a certain degree of privacy.

CABINS FOR THE WOMEN
Meanwhile, the officers, without exception, had handed over their cabins to the women and children, the latter including infants in arms. The entire cabin flats in the aft-part to the ship were placed at the disposal of the women. As this accommodation did not suffice, the crew voluntarily gave up one of their mess decks which was then fitted with extra hammocks, cots and camp beds.

Officers not on duty spent the night in deck chairs on the bridge, while the blue-jackets off watch rolled themselves in blankets and slept on the steel decks—"packed like sardines," as an eye-witness puts it.

A few minutes after the last refugee came on board hot cocoa and other light refreshments were served all round. The Captain had authorised the Paymaster to draw freely on the emergency stores, and as a fully commissioned British destroyer carries provisions for three months the catering problem presented no difficulty.

In due course a substantial dinner was served in relays, the ship's cooking staff being reinforced by volunteers, while Blue-jackets acted as waiters.

CAPTAIN AS MERRY-GO-ROUND
After dinner many of the children were taken on to the fo'castle and entertained by the sailors, who transformed the captain into a roundabout and invented other novel games with musical accompaniments. Elsewhere in the ship busy Blue-jackets were seen with tiny babies in their arms while the tired mothers snatched a few hours' sleep.

Within a short time after sailing a complete list of refugees on board had been compiled and forwarded by wireless to the British Consul at Marseilles to enable him to make the necessary arrangements for their reception and further transport.

"We were extremely comfortable," writes one of the refugees, "and in fact the only people in the ship who suffered any hardship at all were our own officers and men whom we had dispossessed. They could not do enough for us, and everything was done with so much kindness and efficiency that our hearts went out to the British Navy."

Hot cocoa was served early in the morning, followed by a "real English breakfast." When the destroyer reached Marseilles the process of disembarkation was somewhat impeded by the number of refugees who were anxious personally to thank the captain and officers for all that had been done for them.

It was announced in the "London Gazette" of August 8 that the King has appointed Sir Arthur Frederick Richards, K.C.M.G., to be Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the colony of Fiji and High Commissioner for the Western Pacific.

Sir Arthur Richards, who is 50, entered the Malayan Civil Service in 1908. He was Governor of the State of North Borneo from 1930 to 1933, when he was appointed Governor of Gambla.

The salary of Governor of Fiji is £3,000 and of High Commissioner of the Western Pacific £1,000. The Governor of Gambla's salary is £2,500.

An hour later the vessel was on her way back to Barcelona while all hands were busy cleaning the ship and preparing it for another load of passengers.

What the Navy can do, in an emergency was shown during the evacuation of Gallipoli, when a single small destroyer, the Grasshopper, of less than 900 tons, embarked 1,200 troops with their equipment and conveyed them to Kethallo. On this occasion the decks were so packed that movement was absolutely impossible, and officers or ratings who had to go to the bridge could get there only by clambering along the outside of the ship holding on to the guard rails.

CONGRATULATIONS to every man and woman

They've escaped the most common complaint of civilized people—a shortage of minerals in the body. Teeth were meant to last a lifetime, hair to retain its colour and luxuriance, and the heart and nervous system should give carefree service for three-score years and ten.

But teeth, hair, nerves and muscles depend for well-being on the millions of cells of which the body is made up. These cells must have plenty of minerals to keep them strong; any shortage weakens them and you soon feel the effect in every organ of your body. Kalzana supplies the body with all the minerals it requires, in an easily absorbed form. Therefore, the effects of Kalzana are quickly felt in increased vitality, better appetite, soothed nerves. Soon the whole system is toned up. The teeth regain strength and hardness and decay is arrested. Radiant health returns—stay. Start taking Kalzana without delay—give it to your children too.

"I am never without Kalzana, not taking them always, but at any time of extra strain, and when there are infections about. I find my resistance to disease and my general health marvellous."

ROBBERY IN CITY SHOP

Indian Silk Store
Victimized

PADLOCKS REMOVED

The Tajmahal Silk Store was the scene of a robbery on August 16, as a result of which Chan Sik Yuen, unemployed, was charged before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the General Police Court on Saturday with the theft of three rolls of velvet, 29 rolls of silk, 18 pairs of silk stockings, six powder boxes, one piece of diamond trimming, one cut glass earring, 24 meta. bangles and $183.

Ho Lau was charged with aiding and abetting by removing two padlocks and giving them to the first defendant to make "keys" therefrom.

Mr. S. Narain, the manager of the store, was the complainant. Mr. M. A. da Silva appeared for the defence and pleaded not guilty on behalf of first defendant.

Mr. J. Murphy, C.D.I., for the prosecution, stated that the first defendant was formerly employed at the Store. The second defendant was employed at the Health Service Co., and used to clean the floors of the shop daily. The Store had two entrances which were locked at night and opened again the next morning by the manager who placed the locks in a box.

On August 15, the first defendant, asked the second defendant to get these locks to make keys. This was done and the locks returned. On August 16 the shop was closed as usual and the first defendant then gained entrance by means of his keys.

REDUCED PRICE

On August 18 the defendant offered another man in Kowloon some silk at a very reduced price. This man, knowing of the robbery at the Tajmahal Store informed the Police.

The first defendant had admitted the theft and had implicated the second defendant. The Police were taken to No. 256, Queen's Road Central where the remainder of the property was recovered. The money had been spent.

The second defendant received $14.15 as part of the proceeds of the robbery. Mr. Silva said that the first defendant had previously been employed at the Store and some five months ago lost his job. The second defendant was asked to get the locks and on the spur of temptation did so. If he were not sent to jail, his father-in-law would sign a substantial bond, but if he were sent to jail in all probabilities he would "only sink further down."

Mr. Murphy objected as that would be an encouragement to others in the future.

First defendant received six months and the second defendant was sent to prison for six weeks.

Questions For Urban Council Meeting

Questions regarding malaria and tuberculosis in the Colony will be asked at to-morrow's meeting of the Urban Council at 4.15 p.m.

3. If the answer to 1 is in the affirmative, (a) to what causes is the increase of the prevalence ascribed, and (b) what special measures, if any, are being taken by Government to control and to minimize the spread of the disease?
4. What are the percentages of deaths to cases admitted to hospitals among European patients and Chinese patients during the periods mentioned in 2?
5. As far as ascertainable, which are considered the worst infected districts within the urban area?

HARBOURING CHARGE

S.C.A. Prosecution
At Kowloon

GIRL LEAVES PARENTS AT YOUNG AGE

Complicated statements made to the authorities by both parties concerned, were related to Mr. Himsworth at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court on Saturday when Inspector E. J. Ellis, of the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs, prosecuted a tall, fooki, Fung Kau, 30 years of age, with "receiving, harbouring or retaining" a girl named But Shing, aged 18, without the consent of her parents, of 53, Staunton Street, second floor, and 113 Chung Sha Wan Road, ground floor.

The offence was alleged to have taken place between April 24, 1934 and August 26, this year.

Inspector Ellis stated that the girl claimed "she was adopted at the age of nine and four years ago left her foster parents to live with" defendant. Fung "claimed when arrested that the girl had come to him when he was employed at a tea factory and consented to live with him."

In answer to the charge on Saturday, Fung said, "The girl left of her own free will. We looked for her parents but could not find them."

Relating the facts of the case, Inspector Ellis stated that the girl was adopted by Fung Kau and his wife, As Ho, when she was only ten days old.

GIRL TAKEN AWAY

Her mother had died at the birth of the infant. Three years ago Fung came to live with But Shing's family and on April 24, he absconded with the girl, taking $200 worth of jewellery with him. The matter was at once reported to the authorities.

Nothing further was heard of the two until August 23, when they were seen in Chung Sha Wan Road by a son of the girl's foster parents. He followed them to No. 113 Chung Sha Wan Road, and reported the matter to his parents who in turn communicated with the authorities.

When arrested, the girl gave her age as twenty-two and claimed to have had two children, both of whom were dead.

Sentence of nine months' imprisonment was imposed.

Dr. S. N. Chau, pursuant to notice, will ask:

"In view of the alarming number of tuberculosis cases returned each week as compared with other notifiable cases, will the Government state:

- (a) What steps have been taken, or will be taken, to combat this disease;

TRAFFIC IN OPIUM

Young Man Paid
As Carrier

One of the sad repercussions of the drug traffic, was heard at the Central Police Court on Saturday when Rodney James Rew, aged 17, appeared charged with the possession of 204 taels of raw opium at the Wing Lok wharf, on August 28. The defendant's mother was in Court and broke down when sentence of $2,000 or six months was intimated.

R. O. Grimmer stated that the Macao boat had just arrived and the defendant was stopped but refused to be searched by a Chinese R.O. An European came along and inside the defendant's case was found opium. After giving a number of false addresses the defendant finally took the revenue officers to No. 141, Hollywood Road. He stated that he had been paid $25 to bring the opium to Hong Kong and had been given $5 to take a room.

The case was adjourned to Chambers. The defendant was later sentenced to four months and bound over in $200.

FOR THE DURATION

Searching Questions Asked In Cathedral Sermon

DEVOTION TO GOD

Searching questions were asked by the Rev. H. W. Baines in the course of his sermon delivered at the morning service in St. John's Cathedral yesterday. His subject was "For the duration . . .", and asked on what condition was their devotion to God.

Taking as his Text "Jesus answered and said unto him 'It is written 'Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve,'" the preacher said:—

There is no time in a man's life more decisive than moments of decision. And there are no opportunities more ready to the hand of evil to tempt a man than the hours after a decision has been made. It is as though a man being pursued by an enemy keeps close to cover and so hidden goes to a place where the road divides; he studies his map and his compass making comparison with every natural feature that he can see and makes his decision to go one way; and then in the reaction of weariness following he relaxes his precaution, and pride and temerity lay him open to attack where before he had been safe.

We are often blinded by the proportions of our four Gospels and forget how long a period of repeated and searching decision came before the dazzling moment when as Jesus stood by the side of the river of His fathers, the Jordan, He accepted His destiny, submitted to baptism and in the moment when His spirit offered Himself without hindrance and without reservation to the Father knew that Father's response in the words "Thou art the Son of My love, in thee I am well pleased." The moment of decision had passed. The man Christ stands adult and could, as St. Mark tells us, proclaim "the Gospel of God and say the time is fulfilled and the Kingdom of God is upon you."

Then it was, as St. Mark supplies, "Straightway" that the young knight of decision went into the wilderness; and that the sallow temptation of reaction fell upon him. I am sure that St. Mark's words "the spirit driveth Him forth into the wilderness" more faithfully record the experience of Jesus than the earlier style of St. Luke who writes that "Jesus full of the Holy Spirit returned from the Jordan and was led in the spirit in the wilderness." In the sunrise of His determination to dedicate Himself and the serenity that must have been His when He heard the voice crowning and sealing His own decision there fell upon His spirit the bleak mist of self doubt and doubt of God and the pricking uncertainty about ways and means. Is it not an experience that every one of us in his own degree and fashion has known?

MOST PRECIOUS PASSAGE

The passage on which we are meditating is one of the most precious in the Gospels in as much as in its original form it must have come from the lips of Jesus Himself although it may have been given to others to hear the voice and to know the certainty which fell upon Him at His baptism none other could have shared the experience of desolation and temptation through which He fought His way then and thereafter to victory. The three synoptic Gospels have given us, each in its own way, a picture of what Jesus Himself must privately have revealed. Such private, and to us precious revelations are rare plants in the garden of the Gospels. Why did Jesus reveal this experience of His own in such a way as to make the three evangelists place their accounts of it at the very outset of the Gospel story as though it were a sign post, almost a map, describing to us the character of the life which is to follow? I believe that it was in order to warn them. We may even dare to think that in the act of forming His experience into words with which to shield and strengthen His disciples Jesus made its meaning live more clearly for Himself.

Or what did He wish to warn them? In a single sentence I believe it is of the singleness with which His and their ministry had got to be lived, and of its emptiness. His men—He told them that they would need to become as naked and unprotected moving along an undeviating and narrow path into the dazzling light that blinded them from the end of it. He told them what you will find in II Esdras v.7. that "There is a city builded and set in a plain country, and full of all good things; but the entrance thereof is narrow, and it is set in a dangerous place to fall, having a fire on the right side and on the left; a deep water, and there is only one path between them both even between the fire and the water, so small that there can but one man go there at once."

THREE TEMPTATIONS

Take the three temptations that Jesus described in St. Luke's order. He and His followers must know that loyalty to their call would never make them rich nor would the hard stones of life become rich bread because they worked for God. Never were they to use the power which God Himself gave for their own advantage. There would be nothing but the white light of the Divine Presence speaking in the words of the Mouth of God. And second their loyalty would not make them powerful nor were they ever to expect that the disciples of Christ would become as the rulers of the Gentiles who lorded it over them. Never were they to exploit the power which God gave them to win one proselyte. Thirdly, their loyalty would never make them magically immune from disaster; on typhoon would avoid their house and theirs alone because they were the Lord's men. Never were they to use God's gifts of wisdom and loving kindness and power to dazzle the eye of the simple and win them to God as moths are drawn to a flame. All these supports and comforts and assurances must be discarded for "thou shalt worship the Lord thy God and Him only shalt thou serve" and again "Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God." The service of God is not without its rewards except for those who seek them, for those who exact a price for their devotion as though love could be exchanged at a tariff.

We may be sure that it was not without good reason that Jesus chose to give to the friends whom He loved enough to choose that they might be with Him throughout His temptations, so terrifying a warning. This is no purposeless self-revelation. He warned them as He warned Himself, and there was still time for them to go back. It is very unlikely that they understood Him, but we know how wise a warning it was and so may take it to ourselves. Let me ask on what condition is your devotion to God? When you were confirmed, six months or twelve or forty years ago, you thought to yourself: what difference will this make to me; and it is possible that in your arrogance you made a secret compact that you would continue your loyalty so long as God gave you what you expected. You may have thought then or since, that you will serve Him and be loyal to Him so long as He makes His way plain to you, so long as it is not you who have to endure incomprehensible disappointment and cruel bereavement and crushing limitation and frustration; so long as it is not you who have to go down into the market place and dirty your hands among people you don't like and can't understand and are perhaps afraid of; so long as it is not you who find yourself in the wrong job or in the wrong home or bound together with a country whose policy you distrust or a member of a civilization whose achievements accentuate its shame; so long in other words as you have no cause, in a common phrase, to lose your faith, and to throw over belief in your destiny. Is this or any of this true of you?

ABSOLUTE SERVICE

Do you make or try to make conditions with God that He will turn a little bit of stone into bread for you and allow you to exercise now and then exceptional power in one way or another or sometimes give you a chance to dazzle and deceive with the show of what you appear to be? Do you? In so far as any of us does so, the Church and the apostles and our Lord Himself call us to attend to this warning that the claim of God upon our service is absolute. Whatever your present vocation, as a profession, in marriage, in service, in religion, it

ON THE WINGS OF PROGRESS

CIVIL AVIATION DEVELOPMENT

What "Special Charter" Experts Do

ANY WHERE—ANY TIME

IN THE OPERATION OF AN AIRWAY THERE IS ALWAYS SOMETHING OF INTEREST TO DISCUSS OR OBSERVE. EACH DEPARTMENT FITS LIKE A COG-WHEEL IN A SMOOTH-WORKING MACHINE. BUT, EVEN SO, THERE IS ONE DEPARTMENT IN WHICH, AS A RULE, ONE IS APT TO LINGER MORE THAN IN ANY OTHER. THAT IS THE SPECIAL-CHARTER DEPARTMENT. FOR IT IS HERE, WITH TELEPHONES RINGING AND MAPS AND TIME-SCHEDULES BEFORE THEM, THAT EXPERTS CAN BE SEEN SOLVING PROBLEMS OF TIME AND DISTANCE WHICH WOULD BE INSOLUBLE WERE IT NOT FOR THE SPEED OF THE FLYING MACHINE.

The other afternoon, for example, a visit to the Special-Charter Department of Imperial Airways revealed the fact that a consultation was in progress at that particular moment between officials of the department and some of the representatives of a big American film corporation. The film folk had, it appeared, crossed from New York to obtain special photographic backgrounds for a number of impending pictures, and what they were discussing was the chartering of a big saloon-plane which would take producers, cameramen, and equipment on a flight from England to Egypt and then on down into various parts of Africa. After obtaining from the Special-Charter experts all the information they required, these film men hurried off to telephone to their head office on the other side of the Atlantic, with a view to making final arrangements for the flights proposed.

DIFFICULTIES REMOVED.

While that particular discussion was in progress, another Special-Charter official was listening on the telephone to the story of the sales manager of a big manufacturing firm. This executive's problem was, it appears, as follows.

knows no if's. If God gives you rewards and recognition and reassurance, if He gives you happy feeling and intellectual light and confirmation of the will, if you love your prayers and your worship then thank Him but remember that Jesus Himself made no claim although He above all might justly do so and that it was He who said "let the dead bury their own dead, follow thou me."

One final word is of comfort. I believe that Jesus gave this terrible warning to His disciples in which He would face it with them. It must have brought solace and appeasement to their hungry, perplexed spirits when as we are told in the same Gospel of St. Luke, just at the end He said "Ye are they which have continued with me in my temptations."

Some of the chiefs of an associated foreign company were passing through London with only a day or so at their disposal. Yet in this brief period the sales manager wanted to seize the opportunity of showing these visitors a number of centres in the Provinces at which technical processes were in operation in which they were jointly interested. To carry out such a programme by road or rail was impossible in the limited time available. Could it be managed by air? That was the question. The Special-Charter official made rapid notes of all essential details. Then some equally rapid calculations were made, and in a very short time that official was able to ring through to the harassed sales manager, telling him that the chartering of a fast aircraft, with ample accommodation for the party indicated, would enable them not only to carry out the whole itinerary, but also to have time for a conference on their return to London before the visitors from abroad hurried off to catch their boat.

VARIED TASKS

"Nowadays it is becoming difficult," observed one of the Special-Charter officials, "to put any sort of limit to the work of our department. We help film companies in getting special scenes. Then, as often as not, we have the job of rushing finished films to different points by air. We pick up passengers from incoming liners and fly them to urgent appointments; and quite often too, we have the task of 'dashing with some' eleven-hour passenger to catch a vessel outward-bound. And we also find that our tasks change with great rapidity from grave to gay. One minute we may be arranging for a surgeon to fly to perform some critical operation. Then a moment or so later, when our telephone rings, we find ourselves fixing up for a newly-wedded couple to make their honeymoon trip by air."

AIR TAXI

Strange and pathetic are some of the real-life stories which come within the purview of the Special-Charter Department. Not long ago a woman found herself passing through England during the course of a journey half across the world. Only for quite a short time could she stay in London. Yet during this brief halt she had made up her mind to slip across and, with her own hands, lay a wreath of remembrance on a certain war grave on the other side of the Channel. It was here—as in so many other cases—that the chartering of an "air taxi" solved her problem. Taking her wreath with her into the cabin, and flying alone on her sad mission, she crossed and recrossed the Channel so quickly that she found herself with ample time for the resumption of her journey. It is such essentially "human" aspects of special air charters which make the work so interesting. You hear, for example, of the schoolboy who missed a train that was to take him to an examination. The boy's father was at his wit's end until they remembered that it was possible to charter an air-taxi. An urgent appeal to Imperial Airways, and the boy was flown to his destination just in the nick of time.

ROMANCE AND ADVENTURE

Glancing through the records of the Special-Charter Department, one comes across many cases in which relatives, summoned urgently to the bedside of sick folk, accomplish in a matter of hours, by air, difficult journeys which might occupy days if made by surface travel. And all the drama of special-charter flying is reflected in the tasks which fall to the pilots chosen to handle these "special trains of the air." One day they may be rushing a business man up to Scotland. The next they may be high above northern or central Europe, or steering for the south of France; while sometimes they may have the job of flying big-game hunters into the heart of Africa, camping at night under the wings of their machine, and listening to lions roaring in the jungle. Romance and adventure are still with us, even in these matter-of-fact days!

JAPAN SEEKS A FRIEND

The balloon d'essai which was sent up in Tokyo recently to see how the wind was blowing for a revival of Anglo-Japanese friendship is not likely to produce any definite results in the immediate future.

The wind is hardly favourable.

On the one hand, there is no sentiment in Britain against a better understanding with the Japanese; on the other hand, there seems to be little in either the recent trend of Japanese foreign policy or in the proposed terms of agreement (so far as these can be judged from inspired comments in the Tokyo press) which would justify an immediate attempt at Anglo-Japanese rapprochement. The incident serves, however, to draw attention to the position in which the emergence of an aggressive and expansionist Imperialism has placed Japan to-day.

In spite of apparent failure, the Japanese Army did not by any means lose the day in the February revolution.

Many of the reforms for which the mutineers pressed are now being introduced, and what is more important, the position of the Services in relation to the Government remains unchanged. The principle is even more firmly established than before that the fighting Services are independent of Cabinet control and are administered direct by the Emperor through the general staffs. In practice that means that the Government has no say in the programmes of the Services, no matter how heavily they may weigh on the State's resources.

The Government's only function is that of footing the bill. In recent years the bill has grown increasingly heavy. The Manchukuo adventure, which was to have lasted only three years, has become a permanency, and the farther the Army penetrates into North China the greater become its financial demands. The Navy, too, is a growing expense, for the policy of non-co-operation with Britain and the United States in naval limitation means an expanded building programme. Finally, an Air Force has been instituted by Imperial Decree.

The armaments programme laid before the Japanese Cabinet last month covers a period of 12 years, with an expenditure of £175,000,000 in the first six years. The Army envisages a maximum expenditure of £25,000,000 a year from 1938 onwards, and rather naively reminds the Cabinet that it is necessary to increase the national revenues to provide for future requirements.

That the Cabinet well knows, is where the difficulty comes in.

Japanese trade has gone back during the past year, and it is urgently necessary that a friend should be found who would be willing to relax the barriers that shut Japan out from desirable markets. That would seem to be the motive behind the move for rapprochement with Britain.

KOWLOON BAY TRAGEDY

Passenger Jumps From Ferry

WOMAN'S SAD STORY

In spite of prompt rescue attempts by a sailor and two crafts rushing to the scene, a man was drowned when he jumped into the waters of Kowloon Bay from the Hunghom ferry launch Man Ping at 4.30 p.m. yesterday.

Seaman Lai Chu, 38 years of age, went to the unfortunate man's rescue as soon as an alarm was raised from surprised passengers, but failed in his rescue effort. The other disappeared before Lal was within 10 yards of the spot.

When the Man Ping blew distress signals on her whistle, a motor pinnace from Chinese Customs cruiser No. 30, lying off Kowloon Docks, was immediately lowered, and another ferry launch proceeding to Hong Kong from Hunghom, joined in the search. The three crafts circled the spot for some time without success, and then abandoned the hopeless task. Lal Chu swam about and dived several times near the spot where the man had disappeared and was finally taken aboard the Man Ping, exhausted but unscathed.

One passenger alone of this craft among the highly excited and ejaculating passengers remained quiet—shocked by what she had witnessed. She was Li Choi, 29, of No. 25 Sing Lam Road, first floor, Kowloon City, who had boarded the vessel at Hong Kong with the man.

When the Man Ping landed her passengers at Hunghom, the woman, pale but without emotion, was surrounded by a large crowd.

She stated that she knew the dead man only by his surname Ki. She was his "in long" wife and lived with him in Sing Lam Road. Yesterday morning she left him in the flat to see a male friend Wing On Kee, lying ill in hospital in Hong Kong and had informed Ki of her intention. She later met Ki in Hong Kong near the ferry wharf and he asked after Wong. He boarded the Man Ping with her. He did not mention anything about suicide.

WHITE RUSSIANS IN MANCHUKUO

Alleged Execution On Japanese Orders

Moscow, Aug. 30.

Telegram from Khabarovsk allege that many Russian White Guards who are settled on the Manchurian side of the Soviet frontier have been arrested and executed on the orders of the Japanese authorities on the ground that a secret Soviet organisation has been disclosed.

This suggestion is emphatically denied here. It is stated that there is not a single Soviet citizen among the men executed.

The motive attributed to Japan in the U.S.S.R. is the desire to settle Japanese reservists in the districts concerned in place of White Russians.

ENLARGED ARMY IN GERMANY

Strain On Financial Resources

Berlin, August 29.

Evidence that the cost of Germany's enlarged army put a big strain on the country's financial resources was contained in an announcement of an official German news agency that the Company Tax will be increased by twenty five per cent. this year and fifty per cent in 1937. So far the Company Tax has been less than the tax on private incomes.

The announcement states that the new measure will serve to level up taxation and is necessary for carrying out the big tasks with which the Government is faced.

KWANGSI TO INVADE KWANGTUNG?

Decision After Hurried Conference

MINOR CLASHES REPORTED

Shanghai, Aug. 29.

Owing to mistrust and continuous changes, it is believed that war between the Kwangsi malcontents and the Nanking troops in Kwangtung is now inevitable.

On last Tuesday Generals Li Chung-jen, Pei Chung-hsi, Liao Lu and Tsai Ting-kai hurriedly met in conference at Nanking. Immediately after the conference, a circular telegram was issued ordering the invasion of Kwangtung by three routes.

It is reported that minor clashes between the Kwangtung troops and the Kwangsi invaders have already taken place, and that Lin Kiang, Pak Yuen, Shun Ye, An Po, Kwan Kai, Ling Shan and Hop Po report the presence of Kwangsi troops, whose objective is the capture of Kwang-chow-wan to be used as an open port for the entry of war materials and foodstuffs.

It is also reported that Yow Shing, Wut Lam and Pakhol have been occupied by the Kwangsi troops.

KWANGSI TROOPS TAKE PAKHOI

Avenue Of Escape For Flight

Shanghai, Aug. 29.

The occupation of Pakhoi by the Kwangsi troops is reported to be the latest development in the military situation in South China, but while clashes have occurred at various points nothing in the nature of a major battle has yet taken place. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek appears to be staying his hand, until every hope of a peaceful settlement is exhausted.

The capture of Pakhoi is militarily unimportant. Its only significance is that it would allow the Kwangsi leaders an avenue of escape in the event of their flight—the most likely outcome of a full-scale drive against them.

It is now suggested that Generals Li and Fai have been conducting the peace negotiations merely as a smokescreen for war preparations.

INSURGENT ATTACK CHECKED

Government Strength Under-estimated

IRUN-SAN SEBASTIAN HOLD OUT

Ruthless Attack Expected Next Week

(Hong Kong Daily Press Special)

Paris, Aug. 29.

The Nationalists were unsuccessful in attaining their objective in the past week's fighting on Irun-San Sebastian front, according to reports here from Spain which state that the insurgents apparently underestimated the powers of resistance of the Government forces. The Government troops, which during the first four weeks of fighting had only the most primitive type of weapons, are now equipped with modern arms.

The decision of the military groups to make a belated attack on this sector was greatly to the advantage of the Government forces who thereby were enabled to complete entrenchments and obtain equipment and provisions. The Marxist ranks, moreover, are reinforced by several thousand miners from Biscay and Asturias who now form the mainstay of the Loyalist's Army. The proximity of the French frontier which was none too closely guarded apparently permitted the Government forces to replenish their resources by supplies from France.

MADRID HOPES

The conviction in the Loyalist's ranks that in the event of victory, the insurgents will be allowed no pardon, is also an important factor in stimulating resistance.

Military observers here declare that the Nationalists' only chance to capture Irun is to employ all available men and material in a ruthless attack without regard for property or lives of the civilians. It is therefore believed that next week will witness some decisive battles on this front which may have an important bearing on the issue of the entire civil war.—Transoceanic News Service.

DESPERATE ONSLAUGHT

Hendaye, Aug. 29.

A desperate onslaught on the Irun front was launched by the insurgents late last night, and the accompanying rifle-fire continued until 1 a.m. It is not known whether the Government managed to hold the positions, but their artillery is still thundering. SAN MARCIAL BATTLE

Bitter Struggle All Night Long

IRUN TO BE BOMBARDED

Hendaye, August 29.

The battle of San Marcial raged until 3 a.m., after which rifle shooting continued all night long. Government forces still hold a strong fortified position at San Marcial and apparently the rebels have not advanced at any point of the attack.

Calm reigned again at 9 a.m., but it is believed that the insurgents received artillery reinforcements and are preparing an intensive bombardment of the frontier region.

It is reported that the attempt to capture Irun has been so costly in lives that the rebels intend to bombard the town until it surrenders.

Many women and children from Behobia sought refuge in France during the night.—Reuter.

TO MITIGATE SUFFERING

Steps By Powers In Civil War

London, August 29.

A meeting of diplomatic representatives to Spain who are at present in Hendaye on the French side of the frontier has been considering steps which might have been taken to urge upon the contending forces in the Spanish civil war measures to mitigate suffering as far as possible.

This humanitarian effort was the subject of a telegram to the British Ambassador on August 27, in which the proposal was most warmly supported by the British Government.

It is understood that the majority of representatives at Hendaye have now received instructions from their Governments endorsing the proposals, and it is hoped it will be possible to proceed further very shortly.

In the first instance an approach would be made to the Spanish Government by the Argentine Ambassador, doyen of the diplomatic corps, acting on behalf of his colleagues.

The communication would not, of course, in any way imply recognition, and it would then be addressed to the leaders of the insurgents.—British Wireless.

BELLIGERENTS MEET

Hendaye, Aug. 29.

Four representatives each from the Spanish Government and the insurgents assembled in the same building at St. Jean de Luz to hear the proposals for elimination of atrocities in the civil war.

The diplomatic representatives of Italy, Germany, Argentina and Uruguay from Madrid are conducting the negotiations. Britain, France and the United States are not represented but they are kept informed.

The first definite proposal is the creation of an international committee of ways and means, but it is believed that arbitration between the belligerents will be the eventual objective.—Reuter.

AIRLINER HORSA LOCATED

Forced Landing In Sandy Coast

Baghdad, Aug. 30.

The R.A.F. located the airliner Horra at Doha, forty miles south of Salwa Wells on the coast of the Arabian desert.

The airliner apparently overshot the landing ground at Bahrain and run out of fuel. The passengers and crew are safe. The plane apparently was not damaged.

The scene of the landing was a flat sandy coast in Qatar Peninsula with a few permanent settlements scattered many miles apart.—Reuter.

OCCUPANTS SAFE

London, Aug. 30.

It is learnt that the undercarriage of the Horra was slightly damaged, but repairable on the spot.

The passengers are being taken to Bahrain, not Basra.—Reuter.

EARLIER MESSAGES

London, Aug. 29.

The Imperial Airways officially state to-night that the airliner Horra, while en route from Basra to Bahrain, failed to locate the aerodrome. It is believed that she alighted south of Bahrain.

Owing to difficulties of communication over even a very short distance in this area, no definite news has been received at present.

Both the Royal Navy and the Royal Air Force are co-operating with the Imperial Airways and all possible steps are being taken to locate the aircraft.—Reuter.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM

An official of Imperial Airways declared that the absence of news from the Horra was not yet causing alarm, as means of communication were practically nonexistent in the region where she has probably alighted.

He added that as far as could be ascertained the wireless message from the Horra, sent at approximately 2 a.m. G.M.T., said that the aircraft was landing, but would be unable to communicate further. It would appear from this message that the Horra had landed safely, but that the emergency wireless equipment, which operates from the ground, was unable to send further messages.

As far as is known the following passengers were on board:

Miss Jane Wallace-Smith, from London to Brisbane; Lieutenant-Colonel H. Scott, Lieutenant-Colonel Stevenson, Mr. A. C. P. Devereux, Mr. A. W. Tyler and Mr. F. C. Crocombe, from London to Karachi; Mr. R. C. Crowdy, from London to Calcutta; Major R. H. Penrose-Welsted, from London to Delhi.

Lieut.-Colonel Scott is attached to the Indian Medical Service, and Lieutenant-Colonel Stevenson and Major Penrose-Welsted are officers in the Indian Army.—Reuter.

SEARCH BY AIR

London: In addition to a Royal Air Force plane, it is learned in London that another Imperial Airways machine has left Karachi to look for the flying-boat Horra, which is reported to be long overdue at Bushire. The Horra cannot still be aloft, as the petrol supply will long since have run out.

The Horra is one of the eight Hannibal class machines, and is in her fifth year of service.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

REFORM OF THE LEAGUE

Soviet Russian Proposals

STEPS AGAINST AGGRESSOR

(Hong Kong Daily Press Special)

Geneva, August 29.

"A revision of the status of the League of Nations at the present moment is not justified by the circumstances, and unlikely to attain the desired results," declares the Soviet Russian answer to the questionnaire concerning League reform.

The document adds, however, that the addition of certain principles would help to make the Covenant effective as far as collective security is concerned. The acceptance, the documents states, could be effected either by resolution or by protocol which all member states of the League are free to sign.

The note then enumerates the principles in question, which generally speaking, provide that in event of a war of aggression against a member of the League, the League Council should be convened at once and decide the necessary steps without delay. The aggressor state should then be considered as at war with the entire League of Nations.

Discussing details of the procedure to be applied, the note expresses the wish that the mutual assistance pacts concluded by the states interested in the maintenance of security in certain regions should be embodied in the League Covenant as a supplementary guarantee.—Transoceanic News Service.

ARGENTINE'S VIEWS

Geneva, August 29.

The Argentine's League of Nations delegate, Ruiz Guinazu handed his Government's reply to the questionnaire on the League reform to the League Secretariat on Friday.

Although the note will not be published before Saturday, it is learned that its contents are essentially as follows:

The League should be made as universal as possible, by permitting certain non-member states whose co-operation is essential to return to the League. Like Uruguay, the Argentine demands that the League should be made more "democratic" and that the special privileges enjoyed by certain members of the League Council should be abolished.

MODIFICATION OF CLAUSES

The Argentine's reply moreover demands that certain clauses of the Covenant which have proved ineffective or unapplicable should be modified, particularly that the clauses X to XVI should be brought into line with each other and that the League Covenant should itself be brought into accordance with the Kellogg and the Buenos Aires Pacts, the latter of which, it will be recalled, provides for non-recognition of annexation by force.—Transoceanic News Service.

CONVINCING DEFEAT OF CRAIGENGOWER

"B" BY INDIANS AT SOOKUNPOO

Runners-up Position In League Still Very Open

RECREIO'S RECORD IN JUNIOR LEAGUE

NO MAJOR UPSETS

Results in the Senior League lawn bowls matches played on Saturday were much as anticipated except that the Craigengower C.C. "B" team suffered a reverse at the hands of the lowly placed Indian Recreation Club, by the convincing margin of 70 shots to 45. Kowloon Dock Recreation Club lowered the Kowloon C.C. colours due in the main to G. Cooper's rink (A. Calman, M. Ferguson and V. Ramsey) 24 shot victory over E. C. Fincher's four (H. Gittins, V. C. Labrum, J. M. Jack, E. C. Fincher—(skip)—9).

Craigengower C.C. "A" are now a clear 10 points ahead from their nearest rivals the Club de Recreio. Kowloon Bowling Green Club are two points behind the Recreio men and the final placing for the runners-up place is still open.

The Club de Recreio Juniors broke their own 1936 aggregate record in the league when they totalled 95 against the Yacht Club beating their previous mark of 93 (v. K.C.C. on August 8). This is the fourth time they have reached the 90 mark.

The Kowloon B.G.C. Juniors with eighteen games played have netted 32 points and are leading the Junior Division League. Club de Recreio with two matches in hand, are six points behind.

ESCAPE SHORT LIVED
The third round was rather disastrous for Wong. It was in this round that Singh caught Wong's arm in a short arm scissors. Numbing the arm with the pressure of his legs, Singh held this grip for many minutes. Wong's hand began turning white, due to stoppage of circulation. With a fine back flip Wong emerged from the Indian's grip, wringing his hand ruefully. His escape was short lived. Singh again secured the short arm scissors and this time saved himself by crawling out of the ring.

INDIAN LOSES MAT FIGHT

Chinese Wrestler Given Verdict

HOLDING PROVES DIFFICULT

The defeat of Harban Singh by Wong Bock-cheung, in the wrestling match which was held at the Lee Theatre yesterday was not accepted by the spectators with acclama. Wong, the Chinese mat champion, was fortunate in gaining the decision on the only fall of the match. This fall was against the tide of fortune and occurred in the fifth of the six ten-minute rounds.

Holds were difficult to get. The heat, and perspiration of the straining bodies made secure grips almost impossible. Twice Singh had his opponent in that deadly "crucifix", but both times Wong escaped by slithering out. It must be said that on both of these occasions Wong did not give up when called upon by his opponent.
An amusing incident happened in the fourth round. Wrestling near the ropes in a deadlock, the wrestlers were prone to catch hold of the ropes. The referee intervened but was caught in the tumble and all three men fell out of the ring—the referee, Mr. G. H. Cameron, underneath.

HOLD ON FOOT

The first round opened with Singh leaping and securing a scissors on the body. Wong squirmed out of this and gained a twisting hold on Singh's foot. Singh retaliated with a kick to the face which broke the hold. Singh secured a toe-hold from which Wong saved himself by dragging himself from the ring.
Upon resumption, Singh was cunished in a reverse twist lock from which he came out and turned the tables on Wong and secured a similar hold.
The second round opened with Wong being heaved out of the ring twice, followed by two flying tackles by the Indian. With Wong slightly groggy, Singh gripped with a reverse twist lock. This was broken by Wong with a hand slap. Singh again gained the advantage with a flying body scissors, beautifully executed and Wong was held. The scissors was converted into an ankle twist from which Wong broke loose, aided by his perspiration.
Wong again crawled from the ring to break a toe twist. Singh came back again with a leg twist which concluded the second round.

ESCAPE SHORT LIVED

The third round was rather disastrous for Wong. It was in this round that Singh caught Wong's arm in a short arm scissors. Numbing the arm with the pressure of his legs, Singh held this grip for many minutes. Wong's hand began turning white, due to stoppage of circulation. With a fine back flip Wong emerged from the Indian's grip, wringing his hand ruefully. His escape was short lived. Singh again secured the short arm scissors and this time saved himself by crawling out of the ring.
A series of deadlocks and a head lock by Wong closed the round.

A flying tackle which was converted into a body scissors opened the fourth round. Singh came out of his corner with a rush and had Wong down almost before the gong had ceased sounding. This body scissors was worked into the deadly "crucifix". Wong began bucking and tossing on the floor in his efforts to escape. These bucks were successful and with a marvellous backflip, which called for enormous strength, Wong broke loose.

SPREAD-EAGLED

Wong had his own back when he secured the legs of Singh in a spread-eagled manner. Then began a rotary motion which at the end of each turn ended with Singh smashing his head on the canvas. Again perspiration saved the day and Singh slipped out wondering where he was.

Singh made a quick recovery and collared Wong in a head lock, but again with a backward buck, aided by sweat, Wong broke away.
Wong found himself in trouble very soon when Singh held him down by standing on one of his (Wong's) feet. The other foot was held against Singh's head and then Wong was put through something like torture. The free leg was being twisted and Wong found himself helpless. Singh's grip

Possible Indications For Colony Championships

FORTHCOMING GALAS

As already reported the Colony Swimming Championships will be held at the Victoria Recreation Club on September 15, 18, and 19.

A possible indicator of the respective merits of the competitors for these events, will be given at the V.R.C. on Friday, when the club will be the hosts to a representative Army side. An interesting programme has been arranged which includes two relay events, over 200 and 400 yards, respectively.

Although the Army have not yet selected their teams or swimmers for the various events, they will probably be as follows:—
220 Yards free-style:—Pte. Taylor (East Lancs.) and Lieut. R. A. Barron (Royal Engineers).
440 Yards free-style:—L/Cpl. Pearce (Royal Engineers) and Lieut. J. M. Calvert (Royal Engineers).

Exhibition Diving:—Cpl. Stevens (R.E.) and Cpl. Gregson (East Lancs.).

The following is the programme:—
Small Units 300 Yards Relay (25, 50, 75, 50, 25 Yards).

Y.M.C.A. GET READY

The European Y.M.C.A. will hold another two swimming galas before the official conclusion of the swimming season, the first of which will be held on Wednesday, September 9, at 9.15 p.m. and the second on Wednesday, September 23, at the same time.

Tentative programmes are as follows:—
September 9: Men's 50 yards free-style championship, Junior Section, 50 Yards free-style championship, Men's 50 Yards breast-stroke championship, Diving championship and Ladies' 50 Yards free-style championship. There will also be several novelty events for novices to break up the programme.
September 23: Men's 100 Yards free-style championship, Men's slipped and Wong kicked his way free.

DOUBLE TOE LOCK

The opening of the fifth round saw Singh with Wong held in a finger lock which was converted into a double toe lock. Twice Singh threw Wong. Whirling him above his head and banging him to the ground. It was on the second of these that Wong, suspended overhead, with an eel-like twist, overbalanced Singh and with a back slam and body press gained the first fall. Singh was most unfortunate in this as he was far away in the lead on points at the time.

The last round found Wong rather chary. Keeping Singh at a distance, Singh was out for a fall. When locked in a scissors, Singh broke free with a kick to Wong's face. Singh again lifted Wong off the canvas and while holding him in the air, let him fall with a terrific wallop to the canvas. Wong found himself again in the "crucifix" grip. Straining and panting, Wong could not break free. Where strength failed guile succeeded. With a series of squirms, Wong slipped free.

The match came to an end with Wong extricating himself from a body scissors by crawling from the ring.

BOXING BOUTS

There were also three boxing bouts on the programme. The first of these was a very tame affair between J. Yeo and Iron Bux, Jr. The match was declared a draw.
The second bout between W.M. Cheng and W. Souza, was exciting while it lasted. The fight was given to Cheng in the second round, when the referee stopped the fight. Cheng showed himself to be a firework right from the start.

The last bout was won from K.W. Yue by M. Wong. This was another tame affair and was dreary to say the least.

POPULAR ENTERTAINER LEAVING

Mr. C. Dudley Bartlett

Hong Kong's musical talent will be the poorer by the departure for England on Saturday next of Mr. C. Dudley Bartlett, of the Royal Naval Dockyard, who is probably not likely to come back to these shores.

Mr. Bartlett, popularly known in the entertainment world as Dick Barty, first came to Hong Kong in 1929 and after a stay of two years returned home in 1931. Two years later, in 1933, he came out again to the Naval Dockyard where he has remained ever since.

Mr. Bartlett is a most accomplished entertainer and his many appearances on the local concert stage will be long remembered. He has appeared at many big charity concerts.

Of a charming personality, Mr. Bartlett will be missed by a wide circle of friends. He has written many humorous songs himself though he is best remembered for his renderings of "Good Queen Bess" the last line of which runs, "And so bring down the curtain."

CHINESE ART EXHIBITION

Generous Appreciation

BY THE VAGABOND
"Daily Press" Art Critic.

Exhibited on the first floor of the Gloucester Building is a collection of paintings by Messrs. Wong Wang Ng, Man Wang Chan and She Wang To. Typical of Chinese, the pictures consist mainly of concentrated studies of birds and mountain scenery.

The vital subjects, namely, the birds, are particularly lifelike, exquisite in detail and full of expression. They are of that colourful tone, not usually associated with Chinese paintings, and combine the most delicate of shades with very fine and carefully interwoven tints. Clearness of detail has been given full scope and largely contributes to the success with which the artists have presented their pictures.

Apart from birds and mountains, there are some studies of insects, fish and animals. In the case of the insects, except for their detail, the artists have failed to impart a sufficient impressiveness to their canvases, or rather their silk. A picture of a tiger, though of fine true colour, is lacking in perspective, while on the other hand, that of a monkey suspended from a branch is exceptionally good. It is enthused with life and one regards the painting with the expectation of seeing the monkey, at any moment, take on the vitality it depicts and proceed on its journey up the branch.

A leaping fish is another study, and it is rather a puzzle. Beneath the fish are the wild tumbling waves of the ocean, while the fish resembles in no small degree, a carp, which is a fresh-water fish. One cannot reconcile the carp with the ocean. Here again the details of the fish are brought out well, but the surge and foam of the waves are not true.

Speaking generally, the pictures are fine studies of colour and de-

Mediocre Standard In Semi-final

OPEN RINKS TITLE

Mediocre standard of bowls was witnessed in the semi-final tie of the Open Rinks Championship contested yesterday on the Recreio green, King's Park, when A. M. Khan, A. K. Minu, M. Y. Adal and A. R. Dallah defeated the strongly fancied quartette, K. M. Omar, A. A. Razack, A. M. Omar and U. M. Omar, of the Craigengower C. C., by 19 shots to 16.

The winners will now meet R. F. da Luz's rink on Monday, September 7 (Bank Holiday) on the Hong Kong Football Club green, at 3.30 p.m. Lux's rink comprises J. R. Landolt, A. S. Gomes, W. V. Field and Luz himself.

Dallah and his men yesterday led practically throughout the game. They were tied at the 9th end after having led by one shot, and again at the 15th at 13 all. The next head saw Omar's rink take the lead with a single, but thereafter Dallah's four registered a single to tie, 2, 1, and a further two. From the 16th head Omar's quartette failed to score until the 21st head when a belated effort saw them register a two.

The winners scored on 13 heads, registering six twos, the remainder being singles. The losers registered on eight heads, scoring three threes, two twos and three singles.

Dallah was responsible for some praiseworthy efforts in saving difficult situations with timely driving, while U. M. Omar did not have the necessary support to be in a position to finish off a head. "The green" was heavy as a result of the previous day's rain and the players took time to settle down.

TAX INCREASED

Berlin, Aug. 28.
The Reichs Government has passed a law, which increases the "corporation tax" i.e. the tax that stock companies pay from their income, by 20 per cent. for the year 1936 and to 50 per cent. for the year 1937.

The reason given for this law is, that although the revenues have increased greatly, deficits from former years and the great national tasks yet to be carried out require considerable funds, and to completely assure the funds, the Government decided upon this measure.

In the Philippine mining issues, Antamoks were firm at $5.30. Atoka changed hands at $1.75. Baguio Golds fluctuated between $8/50 cts.
